This two story four bay log house has a two story, two bay frame addition. At the front elevation, there is evidence of a one story porch which extended along the front elevation. The porch was removed some time ago. At the first story level the logs are exposed and whitewashed. They display square corner notches. Windows have six over six pane sashes. Two entrances are centered in the front elevation separated only by a vertical post. Each has a plain bat-ten door.
